MEDIA RELEASE

The future of transport is SMART AMAG announce early market acceptance of two new products

Brisbane Queensland, Australia, 14th of April 2022, Advanced Mobility Analytics Group (AMAG) is excited to announce early market acceptance of their recently launched SMART Survey and SMART Operations products.

This will further complement their vision to be the end-to-end analytics and insights partner for the Department of Transport industry around the globe.

On March 23rd, the AMAG team launched the SMART Survey and SMART Operations in Brisbane, accompanying the SMART Safety Product which is already broadly penetrating eight countries around the world.

In Australia alone, AMAG has secured a national supplier agreement, which has already contracted two significant SMART Survey Projects across Victoria and New South Wales.

Based on the early success of these new projects in Australia, AMAG has received an enquiry from a national supplier of Surveys in the USA has requested a demonstration.

Professor Simon Washington, CEO at AMAG says he is thrilled to be finally introducing these new SMART products after many months of perfecting the platforms.

“We are proud to be introducing SMART Survey and SMART Operations into the Australian market and taking great strides to achieve our goal of being the go-to provider of end-to-end transport analytics. We’ve had some of the greatest minds in transport working on these projects and it’s so rewarding for the team to see them finally in market.”
